

CAMP PLEASANT OPENS WEDNESDAY

Associated Charities Progress in Work for the Summer.

The headquarters of the Associated Charities is extremely active in spite of the hot weather and on account of the hot weather. The auxiliary committee of the Summer Outings Committee is making preparations to open Camp Pleasant on Wednesday of this week. This camp is situated at Tuxedo, Md.

The auxiliary committee still is hoping that some one will lend a horse and wagon, so that the sick women and children will not have to climb a hill in getting to the camp.

The agents of the Associated Charities are working hard in behalf of the Summer Outings Committee, to make all the arrangements necessary for the 600 women and children for whom the Navy Yard employees are giving a picnic at Chesapeake Beach. It has been hard work deciding who shall have the pleasure of this picnic, for there are many applicants who wish to go. The invitations are all issued and the picnic will start tomorrow morning from the division offices at 8:30 o'clock.

JEWELRY STOLEN IN PULLMAN CAR

The Washington police have been asked to assist in recovering a quantity of jewelry valued at several hundred dollars, which was stolen July 3 from a Pullman car from Baltimore to Cincinnati. The name of the loser is withheld by the police.

The jewelry was stolen from a person who occupied a lower berth in the center of the car. The police suspect a man who occupied the upper berth. Ten packages containing 200 unset diamonds were stolen recently from a train running between St. Louis and Chicago, and yesterday the Washington police received a circular offering a reward of $5,000 for the recovery of the jewels.

WILL HELP BUILD NEW BATTLESHIP

The department has not yet decided whether the vessel shall be equipped with turbine engines.

Slain Forester's Last Journey Described by Young Companion

Everett's Mate in Island of Negros Tells How Savages Keep Spear Racks Before Doors—Enjoyed Life in the Open.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Ebenzer Wakeley, of 6033 Prairie avenue, father of T. R. Wakeley, who, with his companion, P. D. Everett, of New York, a government forester, was slain in the hills of the island of Negros, in the Philippines, has just received by mail the last word from his son. The boy addressed to his family a letter in diary form, giving an account of his journey to the hill country. This diary shows the change from civilization in the seashore cities to the wild hill country, where, with his companion, he lost his life.

Wakeley was a graduate of the Englewood High School and the University of Chicago, and was superintendent of the native schools of the Negros occidental islands, which are among the least civilized of the archipelago. With Everett, he started out on April 19 in quest of the cotton tree, which is believed to have great commercial possibilities in the production of cotton.

Trouble With Native Carriers.

They left Kabankalan at 1 o'clock on Sunday, April 19, says the diary, and after a hard walk stopped for a supper of baked beans, bacon, rice, and coffee. During the night one of the carriers, or native carriers, ran away and they laid another. The next day in the morning in obtaining the next day was spent in traversing a broad valley, through which flowed a river. They were so fortunate as to discover a boat, and so made the crossing easily. In the afternoon the carriers refused to go farther, and camp was made for the night.

On Tuesday he writes: "Waded a river. Rolling country covered with grass. A few hills and streams dried up." They still had trouble with the carriers, and the next day was spent in an effort to find a new one.

Spear Before Every House.

"Great people, these mountaineers," reads the diary. "Outside every house is a rack for spears. Every man and every boy has a spear, but it would be a hostile act to carry it into the house, so he sticks it in the ground or sets it in the rack. The people wear little clothing, and some of the men have long hair. They plant a little corn and sweet potatoes or rice. Last night we were at an elevation of some 1,200 feet, and in the early morning needed a fire. When they began cooking breakfast the men got around the fire to keep warm. Reminded me of old times.

"Very few Americans or Spanish have crossed this trail. At its best it is only a path like you see at home cutting off the corner, at its worst you cannot see anything at all, and it takes a guide familiar with the country to find his way. All this morning we were either wading down the river or going up a steep mountain. Had trouble as usual with the carriers, they don't see any use in carrying stuff over the hill when life was so easy without work."

Enjoys Life in Open.

"Took lunch beside a little stream. Got big banana leaves for a tablecloth. Cooked bacon, rice, and jam, and candy, so we live high. Walked hard and long, but could not quite make our destination. Arrived on top of a high hill with a couple of houses. It was dark, so camped there for the night. Spread out rubber blankets over poles, spread some on the ground, and built a big bonfire to keep warm. Slept like a top. Had roasted corn for supper. Fine business."

On Thursday he complained of the intense heat. "In the middle of the day climbing up steep hills in the tropics is something like climbing up a hill of fire. The carriers on our heads, but my tongue was hanging out of my mouth before long. The sun is just going down, and I am going to take a towel and some soap and go to a creek and take a bath. We are in a little valley, a pretty place. Hurrah for the bath."

Posts His Last Letter.

On Thursday they arrived at Bais, where there were two Americans building a bridge, and the two explorers were welcome guests. From there the letter was posted on April 25, and closed with the words:

"Tomorrow or Monday we go into the hills and perhaps I cannot write for a couple of weeks. Will try to send in this letter a little free cotton and some seeds." The seeds were inclosed, the last taken from his hand to the friends at home.

Denied Lemon Pie on Battleship Two Boys Desert Uncle Sam's Navy

CHICAGO, July 12.—Unless the United States adds lemon pie to its menu, there is danger of wholesale desertions. Two deserters from the training-ship Constellation were arrested yesterday in Chicago, and both declared that the reason they ran away was because of a lack of pastry containing lemon custard.

They were foundering themselves on their favorite food in Pittsburgh Joe's Clark street restaurant when Detective Frank Rieck, who overheard them talking, suspected them of being naval deserters.

"If we'd had some of this," said one to the other, "we would still be on the ship, eh, Steve? This makes three pieces for me. How many have you got away with?"

Detective Rieck stopped them as they were leaving the restaurant, and charged them with being deserters from the navy.

"Don't deny it," said the officer, "for I've got the goods on you. While you were eating your fill you dropped a remark about running away from the ship, come with me to the station."

Before the station was reached both confessed that they were deserters from the Constellation.

The boys are Thomas McGath, of 106 Eighth avenue, New York, and Stephen Povall, of McKeesport, Pa. Both enlisted last December. Neither of them is nineteen years old.

On June 25, while the Constellation was at Boston, the boys, who were on shore leave, decided that the navy was not the place for them. It was pay day, and with the money they had drawn they bought civilian clothes. They threw away their sailor garments and left Boston on a freight train.

"Steve and me got sore on the navy because we didn't get any lemon pie,"

BLUE LAWS AGAIN FOR GLEN ECHO

Another revival of the old Maryland "blue laws" appeared at Glen Echo Park yesterday when Thomas Canada, Isaac Shoemaker, and Edward Trazzare, all of this city, were arrested by the Rockville authorities because they were running a carousel. Deputy Sheriff Councilman and Brey made the arrests, and when the young men were carried before Justice of the Peace Reading at Rockville they left $10 collateral each. The crowd purchased cigars at a nearby drugstore, and then had the proprietor arrested for violating the same blue laws.

When arrested it is useless to appeal, it is said, as almost any kind of business, including that now regarded as necessary, can be absolutely prohibited under the ancient statutes.

BICYCLIST INJURED.

Earl Sears, fourteen years old, of 505 Sixth street northwest, riding a bicycle on G street, collided with a Brookland car. The boy was injured about the head and body. He was treated at the Emergency Hospital.

Baltimore and Ohio Excursion.

FIREMEN CONQUER STUBBORN FLAMES

Plant of Sharon Dairy Company Is Damaged Seriously.

Battling for an hour yesterday morning, firemen from half a dozen engine companies fought valiantly to save from total destruction the plant of the Sharon Dairy Company, at 324 B street southwest.

A fire of mysterious origin was discovered blazing fiercely in the feed loft, on the second floor back. Before it could be controlled the building was damaged to the extent of $5,000 or $10,000. In addition to the burning of the stable loft the ice-making plant was wrecked.

The building was owned by Corbin Thompson, of the Sharon Dairy Company, and was insured, but no insurance was carried on the contents, and they are a total loss.

The fire was discovered by a Italian, living in the alley back of the stable. He gave the alarm. It was burning fiercely when the first engines arrived, and a second alarm was turned in. Battalion Chief Hendley, who was in charge, bent all his efforts toward confining the fire to the back of the building, and in this he was successful.

PET'S LEG BROKEN, CALLS AMBULANCE

NEW YORK, July 12.—With tears in her eyes, six-year-old Mary Howell, of 1114 East Jersey street, ran into the General Hospital at Elizabeth, N. J., and gasped:

"Please, mister, send an ambulance to my house."

The ambulance was sent and the surgeon was led by little Mary to a coop in the rear of her home, where he found a fluffy chick with a broken leg. Smilingly, he took both chick and girl to the hospital, where the leg of Mary's pet was bound.

"Will it be a cripple for life?" asked Mary, anxiously.

"No," it won't even have to wear crutches," answered the sympathetic surgeon.

HIS DREAM CHURN BRINGS HIM $25,000

SULLIVAN, Ind., July 12.—Willis Pratt had three dreams, each worth $23,333.

For three successive nights he saw visions of a wonderful churn which would make butter quicker and more cheaply than any churn ever dreamed of previously. At least Pratt never had dreamed of the like.

Pratt, who is a farmer living near Sullivan, arose from his bed on the third morning and straightway hid himself to his woodshed and fashioned a model of the dream churn. Now a Chicago churn manufacturing company has offered him $25,000 for the right to place his patented invention on the market.

TRY TO MURDER KANSAS WARDEN

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 12.—An attempt was made to assassinate Warden R. W. McLaughry, of the Federal prison by a bomb which exploded in a wagon which he was driving through the streets of Leavenworth.

Warden McLaughry and his son, Will McLaughry, head of the United States Bureau of Identification, were driving west in Cherokee street when a terrific explosion occurred opposite the right front wheel of their wagon. The warden, his son and the driver were stunned by the explosion, which was heard all over the business section of town.

A prisoner who was driving a wagon in the rear of the warden's vehicle said he saw the missile thrown from the second story window above a drugstore.

BARNES IS COMMENDED.

The Civic Betterment Association has forwarded to Postmaster Barnes a letter containing the report of one of its committees, which highly commends the Postmaster for the excellent mail service now obtaining in Washington, both in the main office and in the substations. The report says that the most up-to-date methods have been introduced, that the service is 50 per cent better, and compares favorably with other cities.

Swift & Company's sales of fresh beef in Washington for the week ending Saturday, July 13, averaged 7.33 cts. per lb.—Adv.

OFFICERS IN ARMY MAY STUDY ABROAD

Department Thinks They Should Know Foreign Tongues in Case of War.

Language as a part of the equipment for warfare is agitating the War Department to such an extent that it is probable that measures will be taken in a short time to send officers to foreign schools to overcome the deficiency in this respect.

There are fewer officers in the American army who speak a foreign tongue than in any other army in the world. Capt. F. B. Hennessy, of the field artillery, has suggested that a number of the officers of the highest class standing at the army school of the line, or the staff college, be given a "language leave of absence" for one year, to be sent to foreign countries, such as Japan, China, and others, to acquire the tongue.

In addition, officers will be detailed to attend the riding schools at Saumur, France; Vienna, Hanover, and Rome.

TWENTY BATHERS DIP IN RESERVOIR

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 12.—Twenty men, nearly all foreigners, were sentenced to five days in jail for bathing in the reservoir of the Springbrook Water Company, which supplies Nanticoke with water. The reservoir is fenced in, and notices are posted in conspicuous places against trespassing. The foreigners were also notified by officers in the employ of the water company that they would be heavily fined and jailed if they went into the water.

One man fled naked through the woods, but was caught by one of the officers after a half-mile run. The only excuse given by the defendants was that the weather was exceedingly warm and that the water looked very smiling.

SERGEANT GALLAHER FUNERAL TOMORROW

Superintendent of House of Detention Once Sheriff of Pike County, Illinois.

Funeral services for Sergt. John W. Gallaher, of the metropolitan police force, who died Saturday night in his home, 1416 Chapin street, will be held in St. Stephen's Church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Arlington. A detail of police will act as an escort to the grave.

Sergeant Gallaher was sixty-five years old and was born in Brown county, Ill. When a young man he moved to Pike county and soon after was elected chief of police of Pittsfield, the county seat. Later he was elected sheriff.

John Hay, late Secretary of State, and Judge A. C. Mathews, formerly Comptroller of the Currency, were residents of Pike county and friends of Mr. Gallaher. Through the efforts of Judge Mathews Mr. Gallaher was appointed a member of the metropolitan police force in 1890 and detailed at the central detective office. He served in that capacity until five years ago, when he was made superintendent of the House of Detention.

Sergeant Gallaher is survived by a widow.

FORESAW DEATH, PLANNED FUNERAL

HARRISBURG, July 12.—When Joseph G. Dare an old citizen, was taken ill a week ago—his first illness in many years—he at once felt that he was going to die. He summoned his family to his bedside and gave them full and explicit directions regarding his funeral.

He selected the church, named the officiating minister, announced the text of the sermon, named the hymns to be sung, selected the pallbearers, and directed how his grave should be prepared.

Now he is dead, and his directions will be carried out at the funeral today.

MURDERER SLAYS FELLOW-CONVICT

Desperate Prisoner at Moundsville Plunges Scissors Blade Into Burglar's Back.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., July 12.—William Banks, an electrician, aged forty-seven, was murdered in cold blood Sunday by Oscar Phipps, a miner, in the State penitentiary. Both were prisoners at the institution.

Phipps is serving a life sentence for murder in Cabell county, and his victim was doing five years for burglary. Phipps is the most vicious convict in the prison. He has committed three murderous assaults since entering the institution in 1922.

Yesterday, when Banks entered the pharmacy of the prison, Phipps was standing in the door. As Banks went out Phipps produced a knife made of a scissors blade, and plunged it into the victim's back. Banks fell and died almost instantly. This is the fourth murder at the prison within four years.

GIANT SKELETONS FOUND ON COAST

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—William Derbyshire and Jack Stoneberger, of Chicago, and Robert Derbyshire, of Santa Monica, contractors, have unearthed the skeleton of a gigantic prehistoric man at Santa Monica beach. The skeleton was over nine feet in height. Hard work uncovered thirteen more similar skeletons.

Three perfect specimens were brought to Santa Monica for exhibition and scientists who have examined them say they undoubtedly are hundreds of years old.

The skulls have the formation of an Indian head, with high cheek bones, and other pronounced characteristics. In every case the teeth are practically intact.
